

JUST FOOD

Just food transition

Tackling inequalities on the way to a sustainable, climate-smart and just food system

What is Just food transition

- JUST FOOD?

The project studies ways to transition to a climate-smart and healthy food system in a sustainable, acceptable and just manner.

We do not yet have concepts for discussing and assessing the fairness of sustainable food system transition. Moreover, we are missing the practical solutions and policy measures to guide the sustainable transition in a fair manner. Just food project tackles this challenge and develops definitions and criteria for fair and sustainable food system transition.

In this transdisciplinary project we seek answers to:

- What is just food system transition?
- How do we promote it in practice?
- What kind of policy measures will speed up the sustainable and just food system transition?

Just food analyses and tests solutions to just food system transition in cooperation with its partners. We collect, analyse and disseminate knowledge with the help of interdisciplinary modelling, practical case studies, Just food Talks, seminars, newsletters and social media.
